

Ocean Projects is composed of experienced senior professionals who conceive and develop large scale Public Aquariums which have already welcomed more than 25 million visitors. The company has vast experience developed over more than 30 years on projects worldwide.

In concertation with the Client, Ocean Projects embarks on the development of the outline brief of the project and then its conception, preliminary and detailed design programme up to tender documentation stage before advising on tender evaluation and ultimately ensuring the supervision of specialist works.

Ocean Projects offers the team's experience in the field of operation and in technical aquariology (marine biology, water treatment, glazing, waterproofing) and in the recruitment, organisation and training of future staff.

Ocean Projects works with a range of experienced international specialist suppliers and constructors: wherever appropriate it also takes pride in encouraging the use of local expertise with the support of their own specialist know-how.
